

CTB 8

Littlejohn

So how do we know that David is the Only Guy in the Valley after all?

David Bryant, Labour MP for the Rhondda, has passed a bill to amend the Sexual Offences Act 1967, which currently only allows for a homosexual offence if a man has sex with another man in a public place.

It will be a significant step in the direction of a digital economy. Bryant says the bill is a step in the direction of a digital economy. It will be a significant step in the direction of a digital economy. It will be a significant step in the direction of a digital economy.

It will be a significant step in the direction of a digital economy. Bryant says the bill is a step in the direction of a digital economy. It will be a significant step in the direction of a digital economy.

It will be a significant step in the direction of a digital economy. Bryant says the bill is a step in the direction of a digital economy. It will be a significant step in the direction of a digital economy.

It will be a significant step in the direction of a digital economy. Bryant says the bill is a step in the direction of a digital economy. It will be a significant step in the direction of a digital economy.

Could Bryant really be so confident that his bill will pass? It's a long way from the current law, which only allows for a homosexual offence if a man has sex with another man in a public place.

No, I'm the only gay in the valleys

It would be a significant step in the direction of a digital economy. Bryant says the bill is a step in the direction of a digital economy. It will be a significant step in the direction of a digital economy.

OFF WITH THE MAD MULLAH'S HEAD

AND MULLAH Rush and Sinn Féin, the two main parties in the Irish Republic, have agreed to a coalition government. The coalition will be led by the Sinn Féin leader, Eamon Gilmore. The coalition will be a significant step in the direction of a digital economy.

AFTER the Atkins, comes the Hottelones' Diet. It says you can eat all the red meat you like. You're welcome!

LAST week it was the Chinese Premier Wen Jiabao who was the focus of the headlines. This week it's the British Prime Minister, Tony Blair, who is the focus of the headlines.

Boing!

When your fan belt lets you down at the roadside, you can't have your up and running in no time at all. Simply join the AA from just £40.

Just Ask.

Breakdown Cover
0800 225 646
www.theAA.com

THE COMP-EN-SAY-SHUN NATION

THESE days, it's not just the politicians who are being criticised. It's the business leaders, the media, the public, and the government itself. The country is in a state of confusion and uncertainty.

The government has passed a bill to amend the Sexual Offences Act 1967, which currently only allows for a homosexual offence if a man has sex with another man in a public place. This bill is a significant step in the direction of a digital economy.

WATCH LITTLEJOHN ON SKY NEWS MONDAY TO THURSDAY 7pm