Matters arising:

- It was agreed not to proceed with a report on moderating websites.
- It was agreed the Clause 1ii amendment should take effect from 1 January 2011.
- The secretary reported on PCC/Code Committee liaison since the Governance review and on the committee's formal response to the Select Committee.

Code Committee website: The secretary said the Chairman's Report attracted record hits.

Bribery Act: It was agreed that, while it was right that the industry and individual member organisations should make recommendations to the Government's consultation on the new Act, it was not appropriate for the Code Committee to do so at the present time.

Witness payments: It was agreed, at Lady Buscombe's request, that the secretary should communicate to the PCC the committee's view on payments to defendants, where proceedings were active.

Adverse adjudications: It was agreed that a proposed amendment to the Code preamble rules on publishing adverse adjudications should go out for industry and PCC consultation.

Phone hacking: The committee reviewed the Code's rules on phone hacking. It was agreed that the restrictions introduced in August 2007 were explicit and comprehensive. In view of the current police investigation, no further change was recommended, but developments should continue to be very closely monitored.

Transparency: It was agreed the committee's Agenda and Minutes should in future be published online.

Online Codebook: The secretary reported on a major revision of The Editors' Codebook online, which would be posted on the committee website, incorporating inter alia new guidance on prior notification, social networking sites, headlines, and photography.

Suggestions from the public: Four suggestions were considered. Decisions will be incorporated into the annual Code Review.
