Dear Howell,

I am writing to follow up a suggestion you very helpfully made at a meeting we had earlier in the year, concerning how the PCC can make its work better known in Whitehall. One of your ideas was for someone from here – either Tim or me – to come to chat to the monthly gathering of departmental Directors of Communications. If I recall correctly, I think you suggested we should get in touch with you in the autumn to see if there was any interest in taking this forward.

Could you let me know whether this might still be appropriate? There have been a number of interesting developments this year which would lend themselves to good case studies.

I look forward to hearing from you.

With kind regards.
