24 February 2005

Dear Sir/Madame,

In preparation for the next parliamentary debate on press and media I would appreciate your opinion on the success, or otherwise, of the Press Complaints Commission as a self regulatory body.

In particular, in order to assist my own assessment of the procedures for complaints, a) how many complaints were lodged with the press Complaints Commission during 2004; b) how many of these complaints were accepted for investigation; and c) how many of these complaints were upheld.

I look forward to hearing from you,

Yours sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Lord Kilclooney".

Lord Kilclooney.
