

New website for European media regulators

A new website is launched today by the Alliance of Independent Press Councils of Europe (AIPCE). The Alliance is a loose network of independent content regulators for both press and broadcast media. While there is no formal membership structure, over 20 European Press and Media Councils – as well as others from further afield – have participated in AIPCE's annual conferences.

The address of the new website, which contains information about AIPCE and its members, is www.aipce.net. For further information about the site or about the Alliance more generally please contact Will Gore at the UK Press Complaints Commission – will.gore@pcc.org.uk or ++44 207 831 0022.

This year, AIPCE is set to hold its annual meeting in Berlin from 22-24 October at the invitation of the Deutscher Presserat. For more information about the conference please contact Ella Wassink – wassink@presserat.de.

ENDS

24 September 2008